Laugh A Minute

Little Johnnie came home from school one day with a bloody nose and a swollen eye.

"You've been fighting again," his mother remonstrated. "Didn't I tell you to count to 50 before you fought with anyone"?

"Yes," answered Johnnie, "but Billy's mother only told him to count to 25."

* * *

Panhandler: "Can you spare a dollar and sixty cents for a cup of coffee"?

Gentleman: "But coffee's only a dime!"

Panhandler: "I know, but I like to drink it in the movie theatre."

* * *

Two houseflies were conversing and the first said, "Aren't people funny"?

"What makes you think that?" said the other fly.

"Well," he replied, "I was just thinking how much money they spent building this beautiful ceiling—and then they walk on the floor!"

* * *

Absent-minded man: "Haircut, please."
Barber: "Certainly, sir, but will you please remove your hat"?
Absent-minded man: "Oh, I'm sorry. I didn't know there were ladies present."

* * *

Shakespeare: "I've written a good play, but I think the title is too long."
Marlowe: "What is the title"?
Shakespeare: "I call it, 'Julius, grab the girl before she gets away.'".
Marlowe: "Why not just call it 'Julius Caesar'"?

* * *

"There's absolutely no cause for worry," a nurse soothed a patient about to have an operation. "The doctor has seen an operation exactly like yours on television."

* * *

"You sure look worried."

"Man, I've got so many troubles that if anything happens to me today, it'll be at least two weeks before I can worry about it!"

* * *

A theatrical agent received a telephone call.

"Hello. I want you to get me on television and the movies. I can sing; I can dance; I can tell funny stories!"

"Not interested," said the agent. "I've got dozens of clients who can do all those things."

"But I can recite the works of Shakespeare backwards!"

"Nope. I know plenty of actors who can do that.

"Well, all right," said the voice, "but I'm a dog."

* * *

A man who was wanted by the police had been photographed from six different angles and his pictures sent to all the sheriffs in the state.

In a few days headquarters received this wire from a small town chief, "I duly received the pictures of the six outlaws wanted and am happy to report that five of them have been captured and we are hot on the trail of the sixth."

* * *

Every day Mr. Jones's secretary was 15 minutes late. Then one day she slid snugly into place only five minutes tardy.

"Well!" said Mr. Jones. "This is the earliest you've ever been late!"

* * *

"How is it," asked an Englishman of an American friend, "that you Americans get on so well in business? What is the secret of your success"?

"Brains, my boy!" was the reply. "You should eat more fish. It's brain food. Give me five dollars and I'll get you some of the same wonderful fish that gives me brain power! Eat it and you'll begin to catch on, too!"

The Englishman handed him five dollars and the fish was sent to him. Next day he met the American again. "How did you like my fish"? the American asked.

"Oh, it was splendid! Splendid!"

"Do you feel different in any way"?

"No, I can't say that I do, but I've been thinking, old chap, wasn't five dollars a bit too much for just one fish"?

"There you are!" replied the American. "Your brain is beginning to work better already!"

* * *

A young singer had just completed her lesson.

"Professor," she asked, "do you think I will ever be able to do anything with my voice"?

"Well," replied her instructor, "it might come in handy in case of fire."

* * *

"Just the same," snapped Noah's wife as she boarded the ark, "I'd feel much better if we'd only brought along one rabbit!"

* * *

Two foremen were comparing notes. "Do all the boys in your plant drop their tools the moment the whistle blows"? asked one.

"No, not at all," replied the other. "The really efficient ones have their tools put away long before that time."
